

For a great family holiday it has to be Benidorm

By david henry

Benidorm has been a favourite with holiday makers since the 1960s. Situated on the Western Mediterranean, this Valencian city has grown and developed with visitors in mind. Protected by the mountains, Benidorm has a temperate climate varying between 15 and 32 degrees centigrade. accommodation in Benidorm match every sort of budget. If youre looking for Benidorm hotels that will continue you in the lap of luxury with private balconies, Jacuzzis, and spa treatments on call, theyre here. Youll discover hotels in Benidorm to cater for your every whim. On the other hand if youre backpacking your way around Europe on a tight budget, there are basic hotels in Benidorm to suit your needs too. Take your time to look through the available Benidorm hotels for your time period and pick the one that offers you the most for the budget you have available.

If youre travelling in a group, perhaps as an extended family or having a holiday with all your pals, then hiring a Benidorm apartment will perhaps give you enhanced value for money. Regardless of being a established tourist destination Benidorm has managed to stay comparatively unspoilt. The city is lively so if you want peace and quiet this isnt the perfect location for you. On the other hand if you desire sun, sea and sightseeing, A great benefit to Benidorm is the choice of other stunning areas within a few minutes drive. Altea is a superb example with stunning natural features and is a must for that special photo or two. The waterfalls there are spectacular. Further sightseeing opportunities in the same area are the Algar Cactus Co and the Railway Mining tour. About 40km from Benidorm youll uncover another of the areas top natural tourist attractions; the Caves of Canelobre.

There are many attractions for the young and the young at heart! If its an Alton Towers type day out its got to be Terra Micha which is full of rollercoasters and rides and boasts the longest wooden rollercoaster in the world. For a more sedate day out try Terra Natura which is based on a zoo but with roaming animals. Nightlife is an fundamental element of a holiday for many people, and Benidorm has much to offer in this regard. Its a party destination where youll uncover top DJs from around the world playing sets next to admired time-honoured familiar favourites. If night clubbing isnt your scene, even the local bars are known for their entertainment.

With a huge range of things to do, places to stay, and of course the warm climate, Benidorm is still a good choice for your next holiday abroad.
